This course is beginning Elementary Greek II (GRK 1020). It is designed to offer an introduction to Ancient Greek, particularly the Attic dialect, which was the language spoken in the region of Athens, the language of Socrates, Plato, and many other great thinkers. Along with learning the basic structure and workings of the language, the course will offer an introduction to Greek culture by expanding on the ideas present in the readings of our textbook.

TEXT

Shelmerdine, C. W. Introduction to Greek (2nd edition).

GRADES

Attendance and participation	15%
Homework (completion)	30%
Homework (revision)	20%
Quizzes	20%
Final exam	15%

Attendance and participation:

Be sure to attend class regularly; your attendance and participation, which is often demonstrated through active listening, is a graded component of the course. The use of laptops, phones and other electronic devices will result in a significantly lower grade.

Homework:

Please submit one copy of your homework assignment no later than the beginning of each class. You may do this either by making a photocopy, which you hand directly to me, or you may take a photograph with your phone and send it to my e-mail address. It must be submitted no later than 9:15 AM on the day due for credit. We will spend the beginning of each class working through these assignments. At the end of that discussion, you will turn in the corrected copy of your homework. This two-part homework will make up 50% of your grade for the course.

Quizzes:

Every day we will have a brief quiz that covers the material of the previous class session.

Final exam:

The final exam will be held on Tuesday of exam week (May. 16). Any rescheduling must be approved by the Dean of Students.

Learning Disabilities & Accommodations:

Carthage makes every effort to provide accessible facilities and programs for individuals with disabilities. Please see me during the first week of class if you anticipate needing any accommodations. You also need to provide documentation of a disability to Diane Schowalter in the Advising Center (x5802).
