A work of sustained entanglement, a manifestation of differential equation graphs through intricate shapes, rhythm and opposition, a soloist delicately interacting with her environment, a rhythmic narrative, and movement defined by limitation--The Department of Theatre at Carthage College presents its fall dance concert, Juxtapositions, a web of dance works woven by moments of curious, delightful, and unexpected juxtapositions.

The program features choreography by guests, Valerie Gonzalez, Piper Morgan Hayes, Kristina Saldarelli, and emerging choreographers, Megan Brancato, Libby Nelson, and Samantha Thone.
