The mid-term recital represents the individual and collective efforts of the students enrolled in MUSI 262: Music Theatre Workshop. The students explored the process of creating music theatre scenes by staging and learning the material independently. The students acted as directors and critics for their own and each other's scenes. The results of this process were an increased understanding of the process of music theatre as well as a great collaborative atmosphere that allowed many of them to reach new levels of engaged performance.
