

Dr. Deborah Masloski

Deborah Masloski began her formal training at the Mozart Conservatory in Augsburg Germany. As a recipient of the Presidential and Goodbrod Scholarships, she received a bachelor's degree from the University of Northern Colorado. She received her master's degree from the Juilliard School where she studied with Nadia Reisenberg, Herbert Stessin and David Diamond.

Ms. Masloski completed a Doctor of Music degree at Northwestern University where her research examined the influence of social and religious trends on the piano literature. Her teachers/advisors included David Kaiserman, Francis Larimer, Marcia Bosits, Peter Webster and John Buccheri. She has won competitions both here and abroad and has appeared as soloist with orchestras including the Chicago Civic Orchestra, New Mexico Symphony, Colorado Springs Orchestra and the UNC Symphony. She has performed on WFMT radio and is an active chamber musician.

Ms. Masloski has been on the faculty of the University of Illinois at Chicago, Chicago State University, Lake Forest College and the Merit Music Program. Currently she teaches and accompanies at Northwestern University and is on the faculty of Carthage College.

Rachel Cui

Rachel Cui began piano training at a young age, but it was not until after winning several regional competitions, including a scholarship for summer study at the University of Illinois, that she began to consider pursuing music at the collegiate level. She began her studies at Carthage College in 2004, where she completed her Bachelor of Arts degree in Music with emphases in piano performance and piano pedagogy and double majored in neuroscience. Currently, she directs the Carthage Community Piano Program and is active in various community ensembles.
